Surrey Langley SkyTrain station designs open to public input

Updated Dec. 4, 2024

SURREY – The Surrey Langley SkyTrain project is hosting a final round of public engagement on the design of the eight new SkyTrain stations.

Starting Nov. 28, 2024, the Surrey Langley SkyTrain project will share findings from the first round of public engagement on station design, which took place in June 2024. The public is invited to preview updated designs for the stations that will be built for the SkyTrain extension. This includes information about landscaping, plazas, accessibility and design features at each station.

Everyone is welcome to participate by attending one of the in-person open houses or the virtual information session, or by viewing the updated designs and sharing feedback online:
